WELCOME TO SALALAH...

CHRISWIN PRINCE - Class II

It is a beautiful memory in my life, during eid holidays we visited Salalah. It is on Kareef season. Salalah is a beautiful place with its natural beauty. We went to Salalah by road. It was an awesome experience in my life. At that time there were full of fog and mist.

At first time I saw that much fog in everywhere. Salalah were covered with full of mountains and rivers. The main attraction is waterfalls. There were some waterfalls we saw like Ayn Athoom, Wadi Darbat and Ayn Khood.

Salalah is famous due to its amazing landscape and awesome weather. In this trip we found lots of camels, sheep and cattle fields. We can see so many camels on the road side and mountains.

It was an amazing experience to see the Anti gravity point. The car can move without any acceleration and going up the hill at natural gear. We can see coconut trees instead of date palm all over Salalaha. Fruit huts in Salalaha are famous for the fresh fruits and coconuts. I feel this place like Kerala.

THE HUMAN CARBON FOOTPRINT

JAI SURYA - Class II

The human footprint measures energy quantities, resources, and products consumed by a human during his/her lifetime and includes the volumes of fuel and water, and the mass of waste. Humanity is using nature 1.8 times faster than our planet's biocapacity can regenerate. That's equivalent to using the resources of 1.8 Earths.

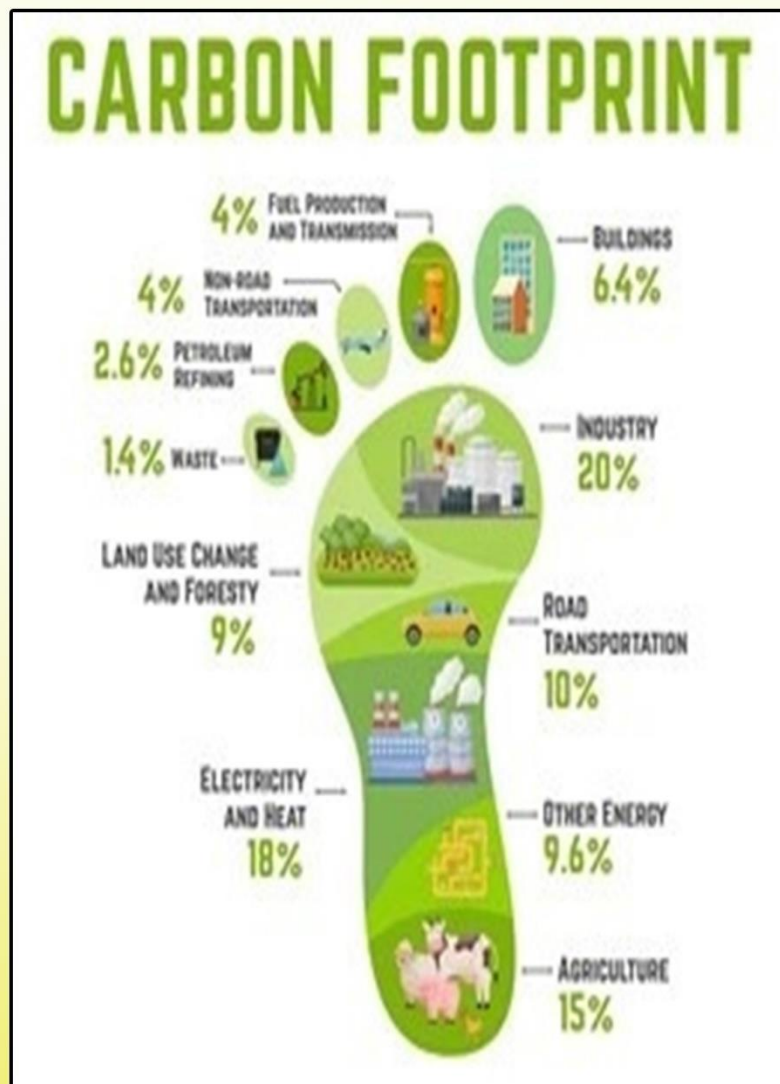

Primary carbon energy sources are fossil energy -- like oil, coal and natural gas, we analyze the human carbon footprint contribution of 8 categories: construction, shelter, food, clothing, mobility, manufactured products, services, and trade. Humans impact the physical environment in many ways: over population, pollution, burning fossil fuels, and deforestation. Changes like these have triggered climate change, soil erosion, poor air quality, and undrinkable water.

Reduce Your Use of Single-Use, Disposable Plastics, Switch to Renewable Energy, Turn off the lights when natural light is sufficient and when you leave the room, eat Less Meat, Reduce your Waste, Recycle Responsibly, Drive Less, Reduce Your Water Use, Support Local. Our stuff travels more than we do. Whether its clothes, food or supplies, many items have a huge ecological footprint. Support local, transparent companies and farms to reduce your footprint.

□ An average Indian needs to plant 340 trees in his/her lifetime to be carbon neutral

CONCLUSION:

□ A study says that the rich have a more carbon-intensive lifestyle with the urban emission levels being 15 times as high as those of the rural poor.

FACTS

ZOEYA FATIMA - Class II

On a beautiful summer day at Brownny's house everyone was busy for Brownny's first day of school. She was starting a new school; Little Bear's Primary school. She was so excited. Brownny's neighbour and good friend Pinky studied in the same school. Brownny's father dropped her and Pinky at school. Pinky showed Brownny the school, the library, computer room, science lab, playground, everything. Finally, they reached their classroom.

Pinky said "Ms Mary is our class teacher. She will be here in a few minutes. Here sit next to me for now. Ms Mary will tell you where you should sit."

But then as Brownny was going to sit, Ben came and pushed Brownny. She fell down the chair.

She was crying; 'why did you push me 'asked Brownny.

The bully lied "I didn't push you!!"

Pinky shouted at him saying 'YOU PUSHED HER!! I saw it!!".

Some of their friends agreed with Pinky, others kept quiet because they were afraid of Ben.

Ben said "If any of you complain to Ms Mary, I will push you too!!"

"Whom will you push BEN?!!" suddenly a voice asked from the classroom door. It was Ms Mary. She heard everything.

The bully got scared and started lying! "It was an accident Ms Mary! I didn't do anything!!"

But Pinky and Brownny were brave. Pinky helped Brownny to stand and they both told Ms Mary about what happened. Some of their friends were brave too and told Ms Mary about what Ben did. Ms Mary took Ben to the Principal's office and he was punished. He was sent home with his parents. Ms Mary came back to the classroom and told everyone she was proud of Brownny, Pinky and the other kids who stood up against Bully Ben. And after that no one bothered Brownny or Pinky. Every day was a happy day at school.
